PART II: TEACHING

Undergraduate Advising

Since coming to UCSB, I have advised many undergraduate students, supervised their honors theses or honors contracts, conducted independent study courses with them, and helped them move onto graduate schools and law schools. Some have published books and become professors, for example, Vivian Kong <https://research-information.bris.ac.uk/en/persons/vivian-kong>, who was first exposed to rigorous historical analysis in my 185P class while being an exchange student at UCSB. Below is an incomplete list:

Year	Name	Kind	Mentor/Member
2010-11	Thomas Neulinger	Undergraduate Honor's Contract, Physics	Mentor
2012-13	Sin Yuen	Honors Thesis (required by her home institution) "The Impact of the Chinese Cultural Revolution (1966-1967) in Singapore during the Post-Independence Period"	Mentor
